

2009

Renamed as “National Taiwan Sport University,” the renaming ceremony took place on July 31, 2009. The university officially began operations on August 1, 2009, with the Ministry of Education appointing Dr. Chou Hong-Shi as the first president. In the academic year of 2009, the Department of Sports Health Management and the Institute of Sports Health Science were merged to form the “Department of Sports Health Management and the Graduate Program in Sports Health Management.” The Department of Adaptive Physical Education and the Institute of Exercise and Leisure for the Disabled were merged to form the “Department of Adaptive Physical Education and the Graduate Program in Adaptive Physical Education,” making the entire school consist of seven departments and four graduate institutes (seven undergraduate programs, eight master's programs, and two doctoral programs). The school signed sister school agreements with Kyungwoon University in Korea, University of The West in the United States, and the International Budo University in Japan.

2010

Four colleges were established:
College of Athletics: Sports Training Science-Combatss, Sports Training Science - Balls, Sports Training Science-Athletics; College of Health: Institute of Sport Science, Department of Sports Health Management; College of Management: Department of Leisure Industry Management; College of Physical Education: Institute of Physical Education, Department of Physical Education Promotion
The school's mission is to be a “sports professional university oriented towards competitive sports and health leisure.”
On June 11, 2010, the Ministry of Education approved the establishment of a Master's program at the Institute of International Sports Affairs, under the College of Management (Tai-Gao(1) No. 0990094015A).
The Ministry of Education appointed Dr. Kao Chin-Hsung as the fifth president of the school.

2011

The school signed sister school agreements with the University of East-West Medicine in the United States, Ho Chi Minh City University of Sport in Vietnam, Beijing University of Physical Education in China, Springfield College in the United States, National Institute of Fitness and Sports in Japan, the National University of Malaysia, and Kasetsart University in Thailand.
The school established core competencies and essential qualities for academic units
Core Competencies:
(1) Professional knowledge and application skills in sports
(2) Creative thinking and problem-solving skills
Essential Qualities:
(1) Cultivation of teamwork spirit
(2) The Olympic spirit
(3) Cultivation of service and dedication spirit
(4) Embracing the concept of sustainable development
(5) Expanding international vision
(6) Lifelong learning attitude

On August 9, 2011, the Ministry of Education issued a letter (Tai-Gao(1) No. 1000139374-B) approving the renaming of the “College of Health” to the “College of Sports and Health Sciences” for the 2011 academic year.

On December 12, our student Tseng Ya-Ni won 11 world professional women's golf titles and was ranked No. 1 in the world for 44 consecutive weeks, earning the school special recognition. Tseng Ya-Ni was selected for the Hall of Fame, and December 12 was designated as “Sports University Yani Day.”

In October, Tseng Ya-Ni, a student from the Department of Ball Sports, was selected as one of Time Magazine's 100 most influential people worldwide in 2012, ranking 17th. She was the only female athlete among the six athletes selected and the first person from the school to receive this honor.

In May, the PBL classroom and Micro-Classroom were established to provide a diverse learning environment.

In August, the Institute of International Sports Affairs was added; admissions were suspended in 2015.

2012

Sister school agreements were signed with Yokohama National University in Japan, University of Northern Colorado in USA, Hong Kong Baptist University, Guangzhou Sport University in China, Korea National Sport University, Capital University of Physical Education And Sports in China, and Jilin Sport University in China. In the 2012 academic year, there were adjustments to the college, department, and institute structure:

1. The “Institute of Coaching Science” and the “Institute of Sports Technique” were merged and renamed the “Graduate Institute of Athletics and Coaching Science” (including the Master's program, in-service Master's program, and Doctoral program).
2. The in-service Master's program under the College of Sports and Health Sciences was reorganized to enroll students at the college level. Admissions were suspended for the in-service Master's programs in the “Institute of Sport Science” and the “Department of Athletic Training and Health.”
3. The Department of Adapted Physical Education was reorganized under the College of Physical Education.

In August, the in-service Master's program was added under the College of Sports and Health Sciences.

2013

In June, the new Library and Sports Museum was officially opened.

In December, the first exhibition at the Sports Museum, co-organized with the Ministry of Education's Sports Administration, was launched: a special exhibition featuring memorabilia of golf champions Lu Liang-Huan and Tseng Ya-Ni.

Sister school agreements were signed with Shanghai University of Sport in China, Hungarian University of Physical Education, Chengdu Sport University in China, and Yong In University in Korea.

2014

Sister school agreements were signed with MBS Munich Business School in Germany, Aalborg University in Denmark, Biwako Seikei Sport College in Japan, and the University of Georgia in USA.

In January, the multifunctional learning classroom 418 in National Taiwan Sport University's administrative building was opened.

In January, the public art "Iron Man at NTSU (Jhong Jheng Sports Park, Linkou)" was unveiled.

An Indigenous Student Resource Center was established.

In May, a ceremony was held for the opening of the new track and field stadium and the commencement of training for the 2017 Asian Youth Athletics Championship.

In August, a Master's in-service program under the College of Management was added.

On August 1, President Kao Chin-Hsung continued his term as president.

In September, the university's library was awarded the Gold-level Green Building Certification by the Ministry of the Interior, and a plaque unveiling ceremony was held.

In December, the National Sports University National Sports Center was inaugurated.

In December, the university hosted a "Celebration of Taoyuan's Promotion to Special Municipality" road race at National Taiwan Sport University's track and field stadium.

2015

In January, the university's Sports Division passed the Ministry of Labor's Workforce Development Agency TTQS Talent Development Quality Management Assessment (training institution version), with the approved content being a canyoning course organized by the Department of Industrial Economics.

In May, after attending the "2015 Malaysia Games" in Taiwan, a delegation led by Dato' Seri Tiong King Sing, the Prime Minister's Special Envoy to East Asia, and including members of the Malaysian Parliament and Cabinet officials, visited Taiwan. They were accompanied by President Kao Chin-Hsung of our university on a visit to Legislative Yuan to meet with President Wang Jin-Pyng.

In August, the Master's program in International Sports Affairs was added.

In September, Prince Ahmad M. I. Abusheikha, Special Envoy of Jordan, visited the university along with Coach Chang Wen-Bin of the Jordan National Taekwondo Team and Wang Bo-Han, Chief of the Department of Asian Affairs of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, to discuss collaboration with President Kao Chin-Hsung.

In September, Dean Yeh of the College of Management visited Munich Business School in Germany to discuss dual degree programs and sign a sister school agreement with the German Sport University Cologne.

In November, His Excellency Taneti Maamau, Ambassador of Tuvalu, visited the university and met with President Kao Chin-Hsung to discuss bilateral cooperation, including future training for competitive athletes.

In November, the university signed a memorandum of understanding with the Taoyuan City Government's Department of Education and the Department of Sports to apply its expertise in sports and health and fitness to Taoyuan's governance, demonstrating the influence of a "borderless" sports university.

In November, the university held an opening ceremony for the Sports Museum, simultaneously unveiling the "Olympic Center" and the "Indigenous Student Resource Center."

2016

Sister school agreements were signed with Nippon Sport Science University and the University of Zagreb in Croatia.

In February, National Taiwan Sport University's "automatic payment machines" were put into service.

In March, the university's 10-meter airgun range was opened.

In August, the International Sports Coaching Science Master's Program and the International Sports Management and Innovation PhD Program were added.

In January, the "Huanyu Pavilion" was launched as a platform for brand storytelling and innovation in collaboration with the university's industry partners.

In June, the Voice of NTSU radio station was launched.

In July, the first Global Outdoor Adventure Leadership Program (G.O.A.L.) was held, with a successful conclusion on August 10.

In October, the university's breastfeeding room was awarded first place in the "Outstanding Breastfeeding Room" competition organized by the Taoyuan City Government Department of Health.

2017

A sister school agreement was signed with the German Sport University Cologne.

In March, the university was awarded three honors at the "Taiwan's Most Influential Academic Resources Awards": 1. 1st place for Knowledge Sharing, 2. 1st place for Best Academic Exposure, and 3. 4th place for Best Academic Communication.

In April, the university completed the renovation of venues required for the 2017 Summer Universiade (swimming, water polo, archery competition and practice venues, football practice venues, volleyball practice venues).

From May to June, the university hosted the "2017 World Congress of Sociology of Sport Taiwan."

On May 12, Mr. Albert Teo, Ambassador of the Angolan Olympic Committee, visited the university and signed an exchange and cooperation agreement.

On August 1, the Sports Injury Prevention Center was renamed the Sports Protection Center.

In August, the university hosted swimming and water polo, as well as archery competitions for the 2017 Summer Universiade.

On November 9, to celebrate the 30th anniversary of the university, a special exhibition of the university's history was held at the Sports Museum, showcasing rare historical documents, photos, and archives. From November 9-11, the university's alum and baseball pitcher Chen Wei-Yin continued his appointment as an honorary lecturer, also donating his personal jersey and baseball gear to the Sports Museum for display.

On November 11, the university unveiled the "Universiade Memorial Plaza," featuring a "pedestrian area" and "nighttime light sculptures" to preserve the Universiade's legacy and connect with the Taoyuan Airport MRT A7 station, providing a new recreational spot for the public.

On December 8, a delegation from the Mongolian State University of Education, led by Dean G. Enkhsaikhan of the College of Physical Education, visited the university and signed a cooperation agreement.

2018

From March 27 to September 30, the university hosted the "2018 Asian Games Support! – Women Athletes Special Exhibition," promoting the work of gender equality in sports.

On April 18, the university signed an exchange agreement with the University of Bordeaux in France.

On August 1, Principal Chiu Ping-Kun assumed office as the university's 10th president, with the appointment letter personally presented by Minister of Education Yeh Jiunn-rong.

On August 23, the university's gymnastics team member, "Pommel Horse Prince" Lee Chih-Kai, executed a perfect landing in the 2018 Jakarta Asian Games pommel horse final, earning an exceptionally high score and securing the first gold medal in Asian Games history for the Chinese Taipei gymnastics team.

On August 29, alumnus Chang Hao-Cheng from the Department of Martial Arts won a bronze medal in the men's 66kg Kurash event at the 2018 Jakarta Asian Games, marking the first medal for Taiwan in the history of the Kurash World Championships—a significant achievement.

On December 14, the "NTSU 40+ Smart Sport Club" (40+ Reverse Aging Sports Club) was inaugurated.

2019

In February, the Chinese Language Center was established to conduct training programs for foreign migrant workers, and also to train university students to become Chinese language teachers.

In February, the Sports Policy and Social Research Center was established to serve as a bridge between the university as a higher education institution in sports and the nation's policies in humanities and social science research and development.

In May, a delegation from the Kasetsart University, a sister school in Thailand, visited the university, and both institutions renewed their sister school cooperation agreement.

In June, the university visited the Slovenian Science Research Center and signed a cooperation agreement with Director Koper Rado Pishot, opening the door to future scientific research cooperation and student exchange programs between the two institutions.

In July, the university joined the Taoyuan Aerotropolis University Alliance (TAU-Team) and signed an alliance contract with 17 other universities at the Aerotropolis Vision Hall to establish a symbiotic partnership between universities and the Aerotropolis, jointly participating in the future planning and development research of the Aerotropolis.

On August 1, a special program for promoting indigenous sports was established under the College of Sports.

In August, the university signed a memorandum of understanding with the Chinese Taipei Football Association to establish a "National Football Team Training Base," creating a cooperative relationship to utilize each other's resources for the development of the football industry and to strengthen the national football team's competitive capabilities.

On December 13, the College of Sports and the College of Sports and Arts at Hanyang University in South Korea signed an inter-college student exchange cooperation agreement.

2020

On February 1, the Continuing Education and Extension Center was renamed the Department of Continuing Education and Extension.

On March 16, the International Non-Governmental Organization, Amitofo Care Center (ACC), with the Executive Director of the Africa Executive Committee, Chen Chien-Hui, and Secretary-General Lin Ching-Chin, visited the university and signed an internship cooperation agreement with the university.

2020 (Continued)

On April 30, the university, in collaboration with National Yang-Ming University, launched the “Tokyo Olympics Athlete Active Epidemic Prevention Health Management and Sports Training Monitoring System” project.

On July 9, the university was awarded the Olympic Movement and Sustainable Development Trophy.

On August 1, a special program for competitive sports for indigenous students was established under the College of Competitive Sports.

On September 19, the university implemented the University Social Responsibility (USR) Practice Project titled “Fitness Guidance for a Healthy Aging Population in Zhuolan, and Sports Science for Nurturing Talent in Taoyuan.”

On October 13, all affiliated centers of the various colleges were merged into the “Sports Science Research Center” and the “Center for Physical Education and Social Development.”

On October 20, the Sports Museum held the premiere of the documentary “The Brave Journey of Life - A Paralympic Athlete's Story.”

On December 5-6, the university hosted the 15th National Conference of Sports and Physical Education Academic Organizations and the Academic Symposium.

2021

On January 22, the Sports Science Research Center was established.

On March 12, students from the university's International Sport Management and Innovation Ph.D. program visited Kinmen.

On April 13, the Academic Affairs Office added an “Admissions Section” and disbanded the Institute of International Sports Affairs.

On May 6, doctoral student Hsu Shu-Ching became the first athlete from Taiwan to win two Olympic gold medals.

On September 28, the International Sport Coaching Science Master's Degree Program was disbanded.

On October 5, Principal Chiu Ping-Kun took over the conference flag, demonstrating the university's determination and capability to host the 2022 National Intercollegiate Athletic Games.

On November 15, the university was ranked 167th in the “Shanghai Ranking's Global Ranking of Sport Science Schools and Departments”.

2022

On March 28, the university was awarded 1st place among public universities in 2022 Taiwan for full-text authorization rate in the Taiwan Academic Resource Influence ranking, and “Taiwan Journal of Sports Scholarly Research” was awarded 5th place in the 2022 Long-Term Communication Award for the Taiwan Academic Resource Influence.

On April 13, the university held the opening ceremony for the “Bi Jing” facility.

On April 13, the Sports Museum hosted the “Taoyuan Landscapes, NTSU Imagery” - Wu Lie-Wei's Art Exhibition and Lecture (Art Exhibition for the 2022 National Intercollegiate Athletic Games).

On April 30, the university hosted the 2022 Taiwan Sports Science Research Forum - A Dialogue between Natural and Social Sciences in Sports.

From May 7 to 11, the university hosted the 2022 National Intercollegiate Athletic Games.

In August, under the Academic Affairs Office, the Sports Development and University Social Responsibility Center was established; under the Office of Research and Development, the International Affairs and Chinese Language Center was established; the Library was renamed the “Library and Sports Museum”; and the Sports Science Research Center was renamed the “Sports Training Science and Big Data Center.”

On September 17, the university implemented the University Social Responsibility (USR) Practice Project titled “NTSU Professional Education Integrates into Rural Areas, Achieving Success in Social Responsibility Practice.”

In October, the university signed a memorandum of understanding for industry-government-academia cooperation with Taoyuan City Government and Taiwan Micron Semiconductor Technology Company for the Taoyuan City Nankan Creek Ammonia Nitrogen Pollution Reduction and Water Quality Improvement Industry-Government-Academia Cooperation Project.

2022 (Continued)

In November, the university awarded an honorary Doctor of Sports Science degree to Professor Gertrud Pfister from the University of Copenhagen.
In November, the university signed a memorandum of understanding with Taiwan Land Bank to promote the excellence of badminton sports in Taiwan.
In December, the promotional animation video for the 2022 National Intercollegiate Athletic Games won both the Domestic Classic Design Award and the International MUSE Design Award.

2023

In July-August, the university's students (including alumni) participated in the 2021 Summer World University Games and won 7 gold, 3 silver, and 4 bronze medals.
On August 29, the university signed a memorandum of understanding (MOU) for academic exchange with Japan Sports University and discussed an academic exchange agreement (MOA) with the university.
On September 18, the university signed an academic exchange memorandum of understanding with Tokyo Medical and Health University.
On September 21, the university's Fitness Center was officially opened.
From September to October, the university's teachers and students (including alumni) participated in the The 19th Asian Games Hangzhou and won 4 gold, 7 silver, and 11 bronze medals.
On November 11, the university awarded an honorary professorship to news anchor Chen Ya-Lin.
On November 28, an honorary Doctorate degree was awarded to Mr. Lin Hong-Dao, Chairman of the Chinese Olympic Committee.

2024

The International Outdoor Exploration Sports Park was completed.
In April, the university signed a cooperation agreement with the University of Physical Education in Hungary.
On April 26, the university received two major awards from the National Library: "Open Access Award for Degree Theses in Public Universities" and "Popular Journal Communication - Long-term Citation."
On May 12, the university's athletic field was renovated to meet the FIFA natural grass pitch standards.
On May 26, alumni Lien Chen-Ling was awarded the 26th Top Ten Outstanding Young Women.
On June 19, the university signed a cooperation exchange agreement (MOA) with Japan Sports University.